BLUE PRINT FOR SCHOOL LIVING

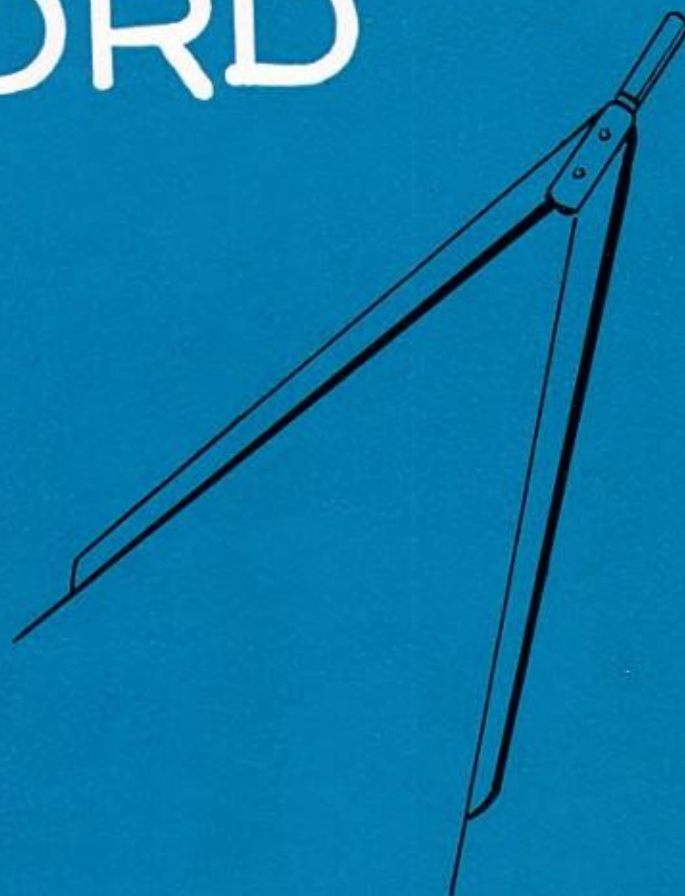

What was our blue print for living?
We are American youth trying to find ourselves through exciting contacts — people and studies. Woven into the pattern of our school life was the learning of duty and responsibility, tolerance and charity, democracy and freedom, understanding and kindness.
To face life and to rejoice in life was our plan for living.

1959 SENECA

PENN HILLS HIGH SCHOOL • ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA

FOREWORD

Blue prints provided a basis for building and recorded our accomplishments this year. Since ours was a different experience, living in two schools, we editors tried to interpret the spirit of Penn's youth by means of pictures and copy. From the old, which we knew best, many memories will cling and linger as we review our contributions made individually and collectively. In the new building we show you, too, the wonderful facilities we enjoyed for a brief period. By whatever roads we, the Class of 1959 and under-classes travel, we will have one common bond—turning the pages to muse over the twenty-first edition of SENECA and finding again our plan for living for the year 1958-1959.

Tomorrow's Citizens

DR. LINTON earned his A.B. degree at Ohio Wesleyan, his M.A. and D.Ed. degrees at the University of Pittsburgh. With the knowledge he had of public education and its connection with our American way of life, he helped to make the realization of our new school come true. Dr. Linton said, "The Class of 1959 will always be known as the 'New High School Class.' The new building's beauty and features will be an indelible memory to be treasured through the years."

MR. HOELZLE, who received a B.S. degree from Westminster College and a M.Ed. degree from Duquesne University, worked hard to keep our school well-equipped and in good condition. He was responsible for the maintenance and re-conditioning of the various buildings, including the purchasing of all mechanical equipment and operating supplies. His philosophy of life was—"Each individual has worth and dignity, and the world needs both."

We hope that our new secondary school facilities and curriculum will create among pupils a love for learning that will last forever."

DR. WHERRY received an A.B. degree from Grove City College and a M.Ed. and Dr. Ed. from the University of Pittsburgh. He has used his knowledge to promote a higher standard of behavior, scholarship, and personal welfare among the students. DR. ALCORN'S alma mater is the University of Pittsburgh where he received his B.S., M.Ed., and D. Ed. degrees. He displayed wise judgment when dealing with administrative problems; patience and understanding when dealing with students. Dr. Alcorn feels that "Our country's most valuable natural resource is a young man or a young lady of high personal quality, equipped with and continually in search of knowledge." He daily strove to implant that quality in our students. His leisure time was spent serving the community through the church and many other service organizations.

MR. WALTERS procured his B.S. from Pennsylvania State University and his M.Ed from the University of Pittsburgh. Mr. Robert Walters, the attendance co-ordinator, has done an excellent job of improving the school attendance records. Besides this, he has been an assistant football coach for twelve years. MR. BEATTY, who obtained his B.S. degree from Indiana State Teachers College and his M.Ed. from the University of Pittsburgh, assisted us in coping with the every day problems we had to face. Helpfulness and good advice were his key words. His philosophy is best expressed in his own words, "The mind, like a great warehouse, is valued by the merchandise it houses; the stocking of worthless goods adds little to the value."

Having a reputation for giving words of encouragement to boys and girls, MR. MEWHIRTER, counselor, had many opportunities to serve scores of students who came to his office for advice in scheduling of classes or for personal matters. Mr. Mewhirter earned his B.S. degree from Bethany College and a M.Ed. from the University of Pittsburgh. This versatile counselor also revealed an enthusiastic interest in sports and was influential as an assistant football and basketball coach.

Mr. Mewhirter counseled Carl Wetmore, senior, about his credits.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

"Health is the greatest of all possessions"

The Health Department functioned as an integral part of Penn Hills School District. Annually on the high school level the nurse checked the weight, hearing and visual acuity of all students. In addition every person in the eleventh grade received a comprehensive examination by the school physician, DR. MILLER, with a follow-up program by NURSE STUCKERT. Many medical problems arising during the school term—some on an emergency basis—required immediate care, and numerous problems peculiar to the high school age-group necessitated frequent discussions with the nurse and physician. Besides this, the health department conducted mass inoculation programs, including poliomyelitis and Asian influenza vaccine and a chest X-ray survey, and also revised the booklet, "School Health Policies and Childhood Diseases."

Here are some health services in the educational program. Mrs. Stuckert, nurse, checked the hearing of Karen Merletti. Carol Heintz, junior, received a health check-up from Dr. Norman Miller.

BLUE PRINT FOR CLASSROOM LIVING

Pat Rogers, Janet Stauff, Don Stoner and Segrid Hagg interested in World History.

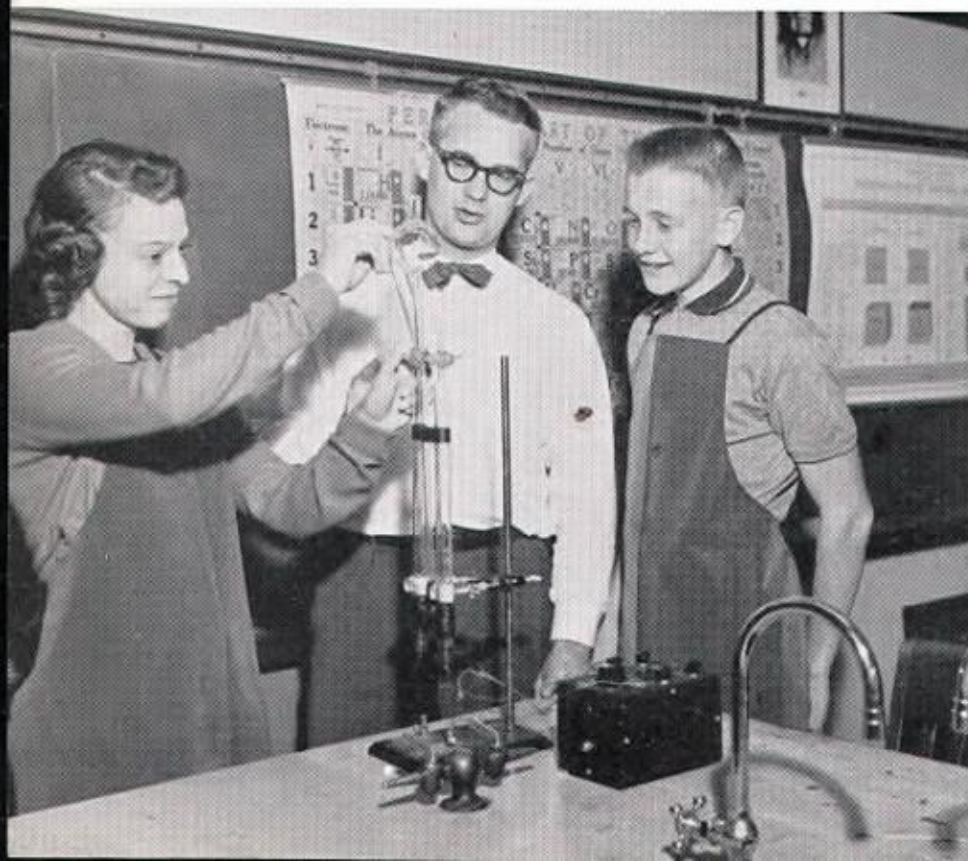

Here we view youth in the classroom—versatile, vital, vivacious, mostly victorious—forming habits of listening and reading, becoming adept in communicating ideas and thoughts, finding creative potentialities, building stronger bodies, exploring scientific and industrial fields, learning epics of the past, discovering the beautiful, and, above all, developing a personality for social, emotional, moral, vocational, and intellectual reasons. Indeed, classes gave all the chance of a lifetime—to learn to lead useful lives.

Seniors Joe Danforth and Scott Smith experimented with the principle of the inclined plane.

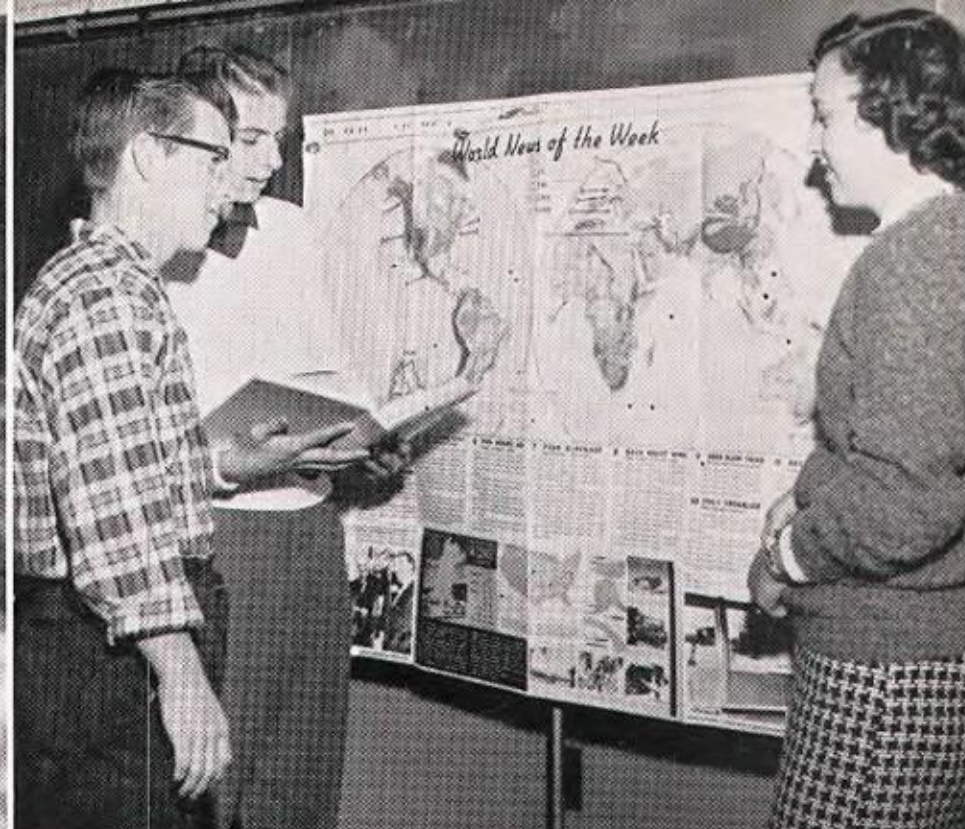

Mr. Holtz instructed Lena Charlton, and Neil Shorthouse in the study of electrolysis.

Learning the preparation of CO_2 were Jo Bianculli, Arlene Scaringi, John Shumaker and Audrey Lott.

Here Renee Raisis, Delores Palmer, Jim Borrasso, and Jim Deni learned to debate.

Ed Mitchell, Gary Kapp, and Natalie Remezo checked the World News of the Week in American history class.

Homemaking classes taught Judy Pickering, Lorie Love and Nancy Tobul to set a table, and Kathie Sekerka with Linda Day to prepare food properly.

Brenda Card, Mary Scherder and Carol Dugas liked the sewing project while Vickie Woods, Jeannie Mettrick, Linda Sterner and Carol Erickson displayed their canning project.

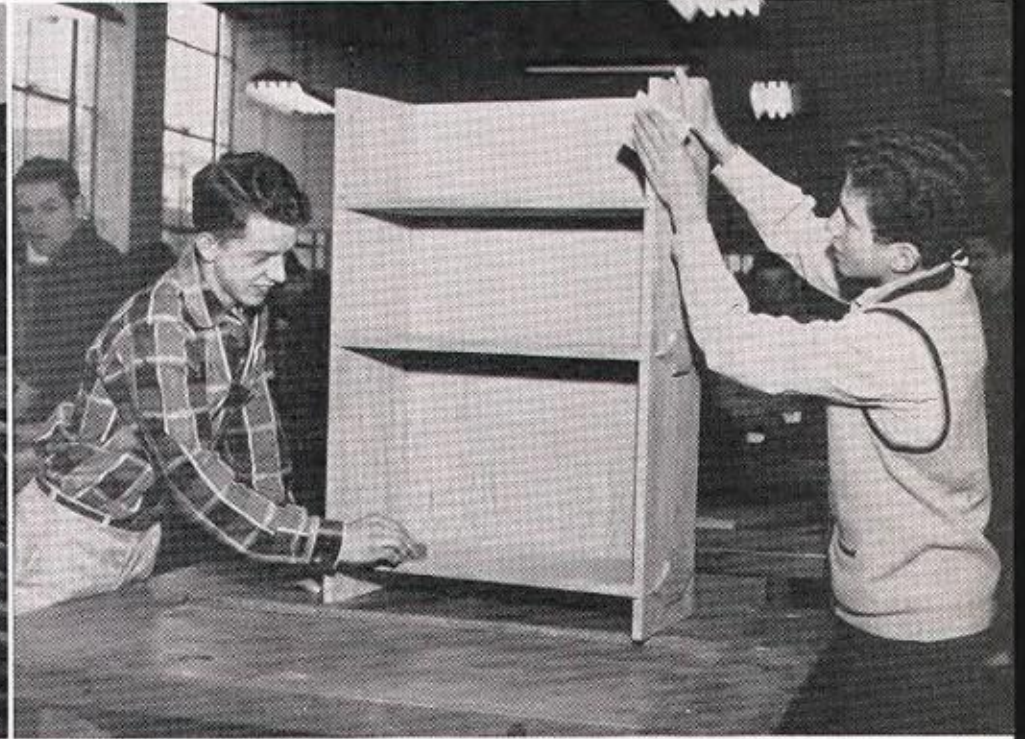

Mr. Carpenter showed his class how to operate a thickness planer in wood shop.

Classroom attitude was important

Part of the gym program was to teach all classes square dancing. Here sophomore boys and girls learned to listen and follow the caller's directions.

Mr. Elicker taught driver training to Gloria Robertson and Virginia Thorn.

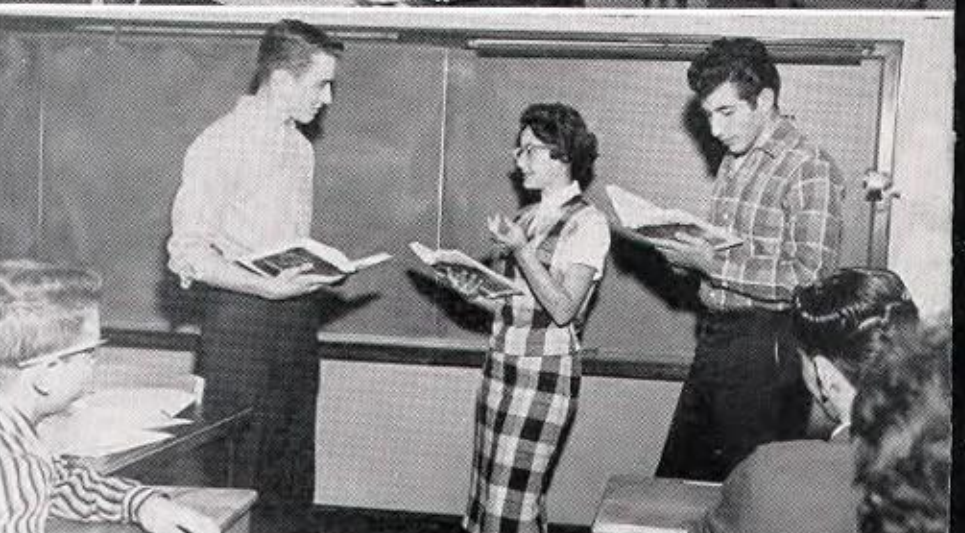

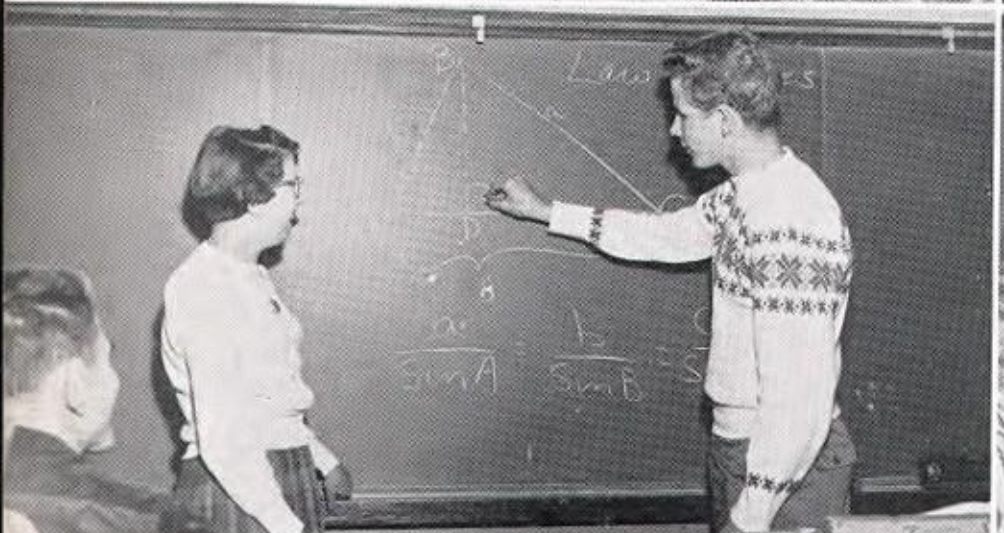

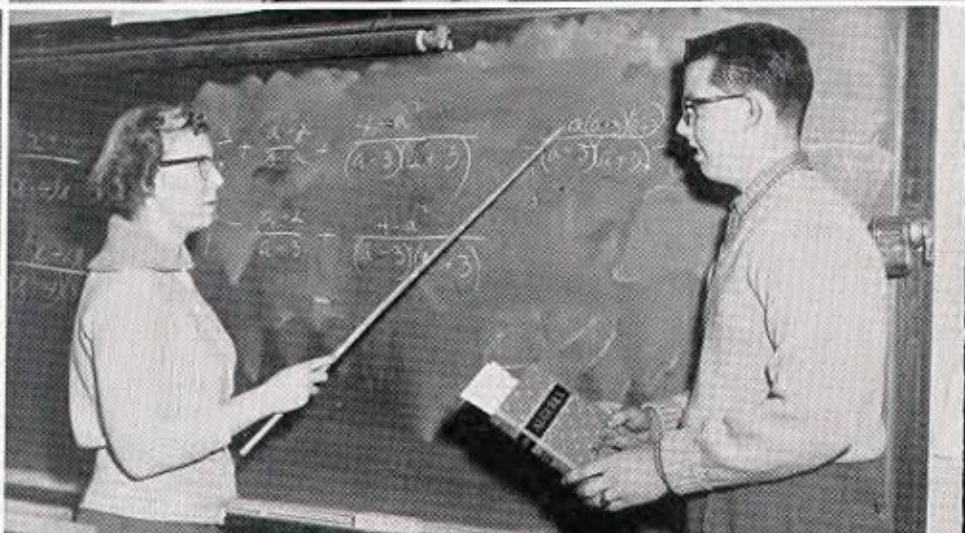

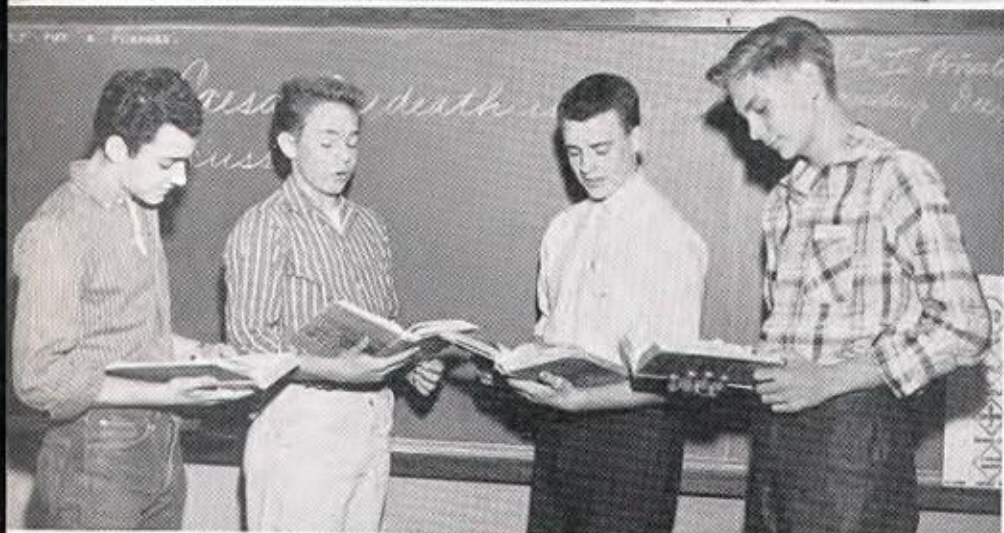

Practice that music. Diane Herold, Peggy Hartman, Alice Moekle, and Linda Walker looked over the score.

Changing of classes brought some socialization to sophomores.

Barbara Hansen showed Ralph Beig a hamster in biology class.

Learning to build bookcases in shop were Ron McMasters and Frank Mireni.

In physics lab Ron McCafferty, Lou Bruwelheide, and Dave Walter checked the accuracy of the thermometer.

Nettie Mills showed her skill on the trampoline.

Discussing Caesar's death were Nelson Windsor, Cliff Pariso, Tom Orr, and Glenn Willis.

Miss Conte instructed her English III class in theme writing.

Bill Best and Mary Ann Wildow found angle by the law of sines.

Mr. Davis proudly watched his gym class square dancing.

Dixie Shenner and Dave Boyd worked algebra problems and explained them.

The tape recorder was used by Bill Vance and Ed Lowry to record Barbara Johnson's voice.

James Fritsche, Donna Scoletti, Fred Piluso engaged in a discussion of "I Remember Mamma."

CLASSES

"He is wise who knows the source of knowledge."

First Row: Gibson, president; Wikman, vice president; Bertovich, secretary; Stewart, treasurer; Clough, historian.

SENIORS - of all the classes down the line, we're the best—we're '59

Sophomore! What a fine reputation we gave that name. President Bob Bell, working with his officers Vernon Benson, Laurel Stewart, and Donna Jane Costello, soon began planning class affairs. Royal honors were bestowed upon Bob Bell and Delores Bertovich. With Mr. Volz and Mrs. Decker as class sponsors, we organized our sophomore dance, the "Blizzard Bounce," and planned for our drama competition presentation, "The High Window."

As juniors we elected Bob Tomain, John Folino, Carole Thompson, Mary Helfrich, and Roger Clough to serve as leaders. Gold and white, the class colors, were set with the white rose on our banner, which was first displayed at the junior dance, "Heavenly Holidays." Remember struggling with our huge blue angel? Bob Tomain and Laurel Stewart were our king and queen; "Antic Spring", our drama competition production; "The Night of January 16th," our class play; Miss Massarelli and Mr. Dressing, our class sponsors.

Magazines. $18,600 worth of magazines sponsored senior activities, which were under the direction of Mrs. Saunders and Mr. Bond. "Seventeenth Summer," our play, also helped to unite class spirit. Coronation time honored Carole Thompson and Ralph Heck. For the drama competition we presented "Cracked Ice" on March 13, 1959, with Mr. Spizzirri helping us.

Leaders fostered good class spirit

Scanning our class history, we noted that as sophomores, under the leadership of Mrs. Annette Comenetz and Mr. Paul Starsnic, we held a dance called Winter Wonderland. Dan Girmano and Sandy Eagen represented us as king and queen. We had fun producing "Sugar and Spice" by Ryerson and Clements in the drama competition.

Emerging as juniors this year with Miss P. Cecelia Massarelli and Mr. Howard Dressing to guide us, we promoted school spirit in a special assembly. We selected Gary Hoffman and Judy Rose as our king and queen. Madeline DeFazio from Room 203 won the class motto contest called "Sixty's Team Shall Reign Supreme." We proceeded to choose powder blue and white as class colors and a white orchid as the class flower. On December 20, 1958, we held a successful dance, A Night In December. Our one-act play in the drama competition given March 13, 1959, was entitled "Why I Am A Bachelor" by Conrad Seiler and directed by Mr. Gary Patterson. On April 24, 1959, we produced the class play, "Growing Pains," with Mrs. Mildred Dunham as director.

Boyd Scott and Argilda Castelli learned where Iran was located in an American history class.

At the Roman banquet Carolyn Bellini watched the apple-eating contest between William Goddard and Robert Cole.

Sixty's team shall reign supreme

Lunch time was a happy time for Sheila Varassi, Jackie Lownie, and Ed Chezosky.

Jeannie Williamson took the junior officers' names, Keith Mikesell, Judy Rose, Robert Pfaff, and Jeannie Shockey.

SOPHOMORES

They had the honor of being the largest class

Sophomore class officers were Patty Isherwood, Silvio Martini, Diane Draper, and Jack McCutcheon.

Newcomers to the halls of Penn we hoped as a unified group to carry on the tradition of Penn even though all of our homerooms were in the auditorium and a half-day session was our lot. With the Sophomore Board and sponsors, Mrs. Annette Comenetz and Mr. Paul Starsnic, our staunch supporters, we held our first social function, The Winter Festival, December 6, 1958, in the gym. Also our selection of Angela D'Ambrosio as class queen and Dennis O'Hara as king along with their royal court Linda Ashcraft, Jean Moore, Mike Palamone, and Ronald Davis gave us great pride and satisfaction. We entered the drama competition on March 13, 1959, by presenting The Valient by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass with Miss Irene Kovaly successfully directing our one-act entry. Going to the new high school building, we expect to enjoy roaming the corridors with the seniors and juniors.

Jimmy Freker, Sam Adams, and Walter McDade, sophomores, search for books for their next book report.

SENECA

Publications presented school information

The yearbook served as a memory book for students and as a public relations instrument. Because we moved to the new Penn Hills High School in April 1959, the staff chose the appropriate theme for the book called "A Blue Print For Living." Although we cannot record any familiar sounds such as the screech of bus brakes, the shuffling feet of students pouring into the building, clanging lockers, lilting laughter or even a sob of despair, yet the staff endeavored to show many of the sights of school living. Wanting to live up to our 1956, 1957, and 1958 predecessors who received First Awards, we learned early to assume responsibility because of the sponsor's absence for a while. Unexpectedly and continually problems appeared—members forgot about deadlines and the two-session day brought difficulties. We were ever aware of bringing class interruptions and school inconvenience to a minimum. But with the fine school attitude and the generous backing of the administration and faculty, we survived as a unified group, learning much about journalism and flourishing in a friendly, cooperative atmosphere with Miss Marie Stoechr, our sponsor, and Mr. Larry Miller, business manager.

PENN POINTS

A high adventure into journalism

Because the school operated for part of the year on half-day sessions, it was imperative to keep all the students informed about events through Penn Points, Penn's newspaper, which interpreted the news of the school, commended student recognition and achievement, and trained staff members in the rudiments of journalism. Augmenting this, it gave the staff experience with publications and the persons contributing the most became affiliated with Quill and Scroll, a national journalistic organization. Their activities included attending with the sponsor, Mr. Walter McLeister, the W.P.S.P.A. Conference at Langley High School in Pittsburgh, October 4, 1958, and planning the grandest event of the year, the Coronation Ball, held November 14, 1958, at which time class kings and queens with their attendants were presented. Time and effort, combined with perseverance, brought the Penn Points staff into the focus of the entire school.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The purpose of Student Council was to represent the student body in the general organizational structure of the school. Under the excellent leadership of president, George Hamilton, and sponsor, Dr. Matthew M. Alcorn, this body bettered student welfare and contributed toward the general improvement of the school program. When home football games occurred, they managed the refreshment stand with the help of Mrs. Virginia Cramer, home economics teacher. Also they provided superior assembly programs, supervised guest card procedure for school dances, published the Student Handbook, and wrote the code of ethics adopted by the student body. Highlighting all this, the group managed the P.T.A. membership drives, improved interscholastic sportsmanship in athletics and organized school elections. Student Council, indeed, discussed and took action on each home room's ideas, questions, or problems democratically.

Student Council officers relaxed in the sunshine after working all term for the entire student body.

SERVICE CLUBS

COMMERCIAL CLUB

Ready and willing to learn anything about the business world were the girls in the Commercial Club. The purpose of this club was to teach members more about the business world and give them practical experience by acting as secretary to the various teachers in the school. Under the expert guidance of Mrs. Harriet Naser the club offered many services to the school by making programs for the many school functions. At the end of the year the club awarded pins to the best typing, shorthand, and book-keeping students. They chose an ideal secretary from the graduating seniors taking the commercial course. A banquet for the girls get-together before going out into the business world as full-fledged secretaries was another highlight. Trips to a few of Pittsburgh's large business firms gave the girls a picture of what they would be facing after graduation. The members in Commercial Club will never forget their experience and good advice received.

Angelo, Brandt, Collins, Trozzi, Commercial Club officers demonstrated a mimeograph.

SERVICE CLUBS

THE PROJECTION CLUB

Visual and audio aids brought visual pleasure and opened the door to more knowledge. Miss Mac Pierce, in charge of this activity, trained students from all the classes to become capable projectionists who had to be available at a moment's notice to help in class when slides or a film arrived. This required a knowledge of operating still or motion projectors. The whirring machines usually clicked along smoothly, but if suddenly the sounds—crack, bang, zoom—reverberated through the room, an operator had to be skillful in splicing the film quickly. Furthermore, the students respected the value of all types, handling the equipment carefully. Seniors Stewart Steenburgh and George Stoner managed and kept in order the Ampro projector used in the auditorium. The diversity of subjects viewed and the richness of content sharpened wits and stimulated thinking in the classroom.

CLUB PRESIDENTS' ORGANIZATION

Presided over by George Hamilton, Student Council president, and directed by Mrs. Elizabeth Beadling, director of activities, this organization was created to coordinate meetings of the extra-curricular activities. Their main project was to raise money for Activity Oscars, given to deserving seniors. Limited to five per cent of the senior class enrollment, the Oscars were awarded by means of a point system which was graded by sponsors of clubs, home rooms, sports, and band. Another responsible task was the planning of the last regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association. This club surely followed the traditional democratic philosophy of the school.

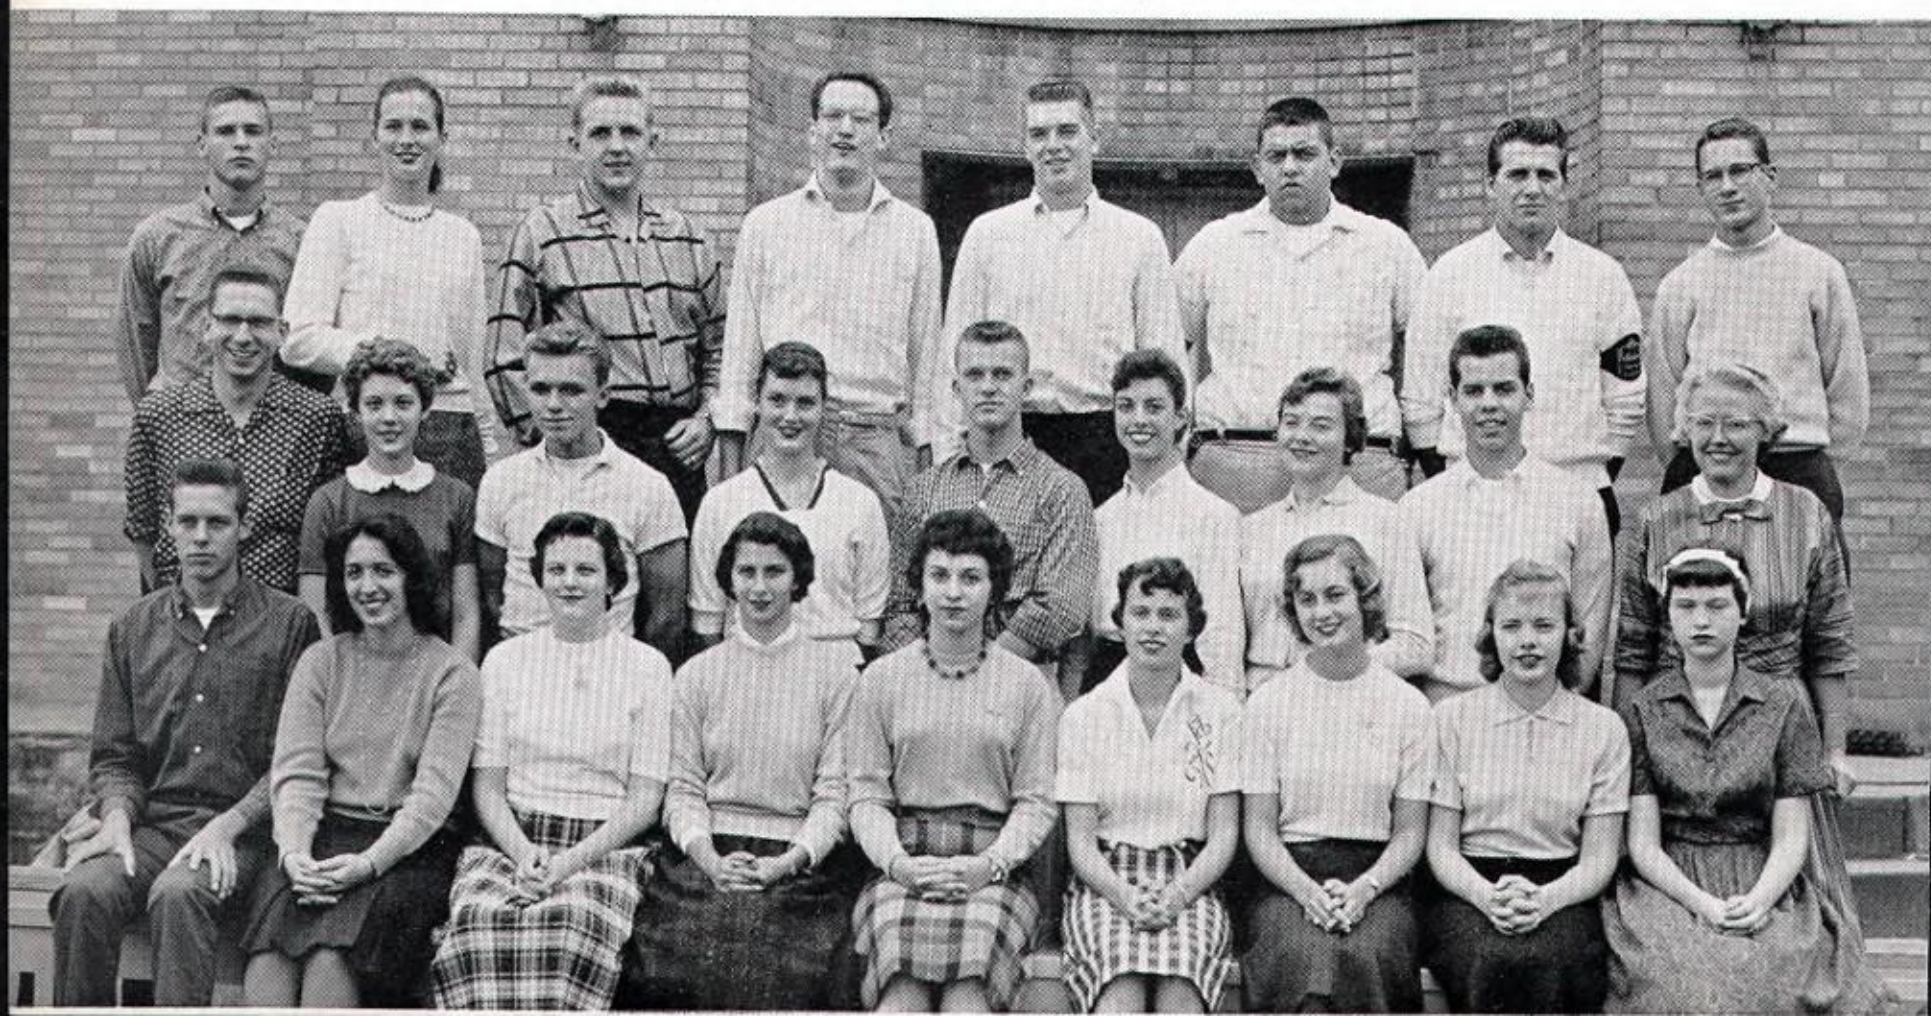

The Presidents' Club officers mailed an important communication.

Librarians helped students find reading material

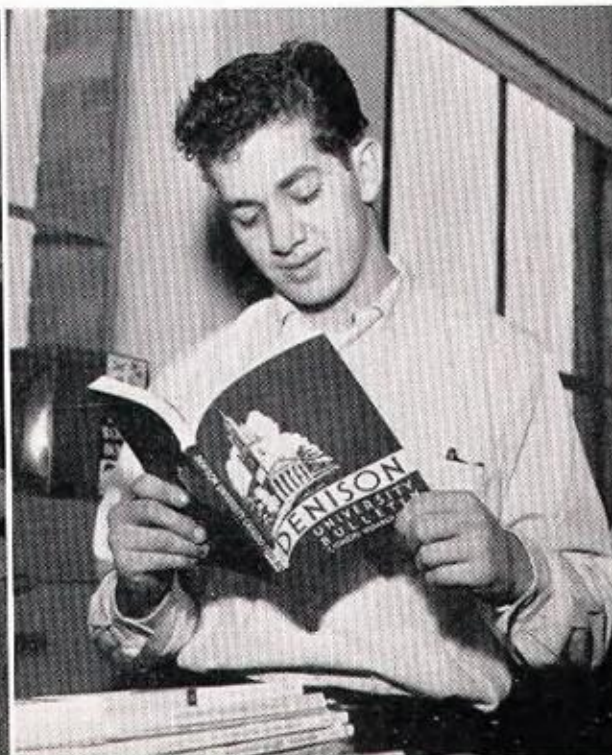

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS CLUB

The Library Assistance Club was under the training of Miss Geviene Smith and her co-workers Mrs. Frances DeClever and Miss Harriet Sexton. Members were accepted on a voluntary basis only and trained to circulate, process and shelve books or help to create many seasonal displays advertising books. This invaluable service of student volunteers permitted the librarians to devote more time to other students coming to the library with reference questions, seeking material for research themes, or inquiring about magazines or newspaper articles. Credited with having spent many hours helping were seniors Jan Dorricott, Judy Swatsworth, and Bernie Kortze.

SERVICE CLUBS

VARIETY CLUB

Achievement and success were the chief by-words of the Variety Club whose purpose was to encourage any student to acquire self-confidence by developing and using his God-given talent for public use. Giving free entertainment willingly to civic or church organizations as well as performing in school assemblies, members of this popular group made fifty or sixty public appearances during the course of the school year. Indeed, the experience gained through participation in community affairs often led former members to a stage career. Although Mrs. Catherine Baine Berg, their coach and adviser, said that all made a good contribution this year, their president, August Chasey, with his guitar, the Monterreys' songs and Charlie Appels' antics will long be remembered. A top-notch talent show, too, performed to bring a foreign exchange student to Penn Hills, was the highlight of this year's activities.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

We show you another extra-special blue print for school living. Penn's Junior Red Cross affiliated with the Pittsburgh Red Cross Chapter, won recognition as a worthy club to join. Members could take a First Aid course to prepare for any future need. Their greatest interest concerned needy persons and they found ways and means to help them. One successful project was a Toy Drive and another was a Penny Campaign for Mr. Football. Their finances were put to use for school and community. This group, with the sponsor, Mrs. Arlene Lesser, too, took time to visit children's hospitals and orphanages or retarded children's homes—thereby getting first-hand information about the sick and unfortunate children in the community. Definitely the Junior Red Cross members learned early in life to share a part of themselves with others.

BOOSTER CLUB

BOOSTERS CLUB

Mr. Harold Peebles and Mr. Gary Patterson, sponsors, along with Carol Roccasano, president, managed the Booster Club, the largest club in school. Unswerving in its aim and expanding in its influence, this club instilled school spirit, that energy so vital to the mood of school life. They also made buses available for away football and basketball games and gave a substantial contribution to the chorus robe fund. No one will ever forget the devotion and fervor of Woody Doxey, goal post decoration chairman, undauntedly swinging from a goal post at six-thirty the morning of the Wilkinsburg football game. Stirring up spirit by visible means such as the sale of red and gold booster buttons and shakers, this group experienced a glow of pride in knowing that their enthusiasm like laughter become contagious.

STAGE CREW HALL PATROL

HALL PATROL

"Middle stairway—down. Side stairways—up. Keep right. Don't form a bottleneck at the head of the stairs. You can't smuggle that food out of the cafeteria." These friendly directions or an arm extended across a doorway to bar an illegal exit were firmly executed by the Hall Patrol boys, directed by Dr. Matthew Alcorn. Ronald Johnston, captain, and his boys were respected by everyone for the fine way in which they helped to conduct fire drills, maintain order, keep the traffic moving smoothly between classes, and direct the seating of students in assembly. The boys with their red and gold arm bands deserved much credit for doing the assignments without seeming domineering in voice or dictatorial in manner.

STAGE CREW

The four-man stage crew, managed by Stuart Steenburgh and supervised by Mr. Robert Carpenter, had numerous tasks to do during the year. They prepared the stage for the crowning of the class kings and queens, for assemblies, concerts, and play productions. Such hard jobs as moving pianos, carrying chairs, and placing risers was done cheerfully. These boys also took the responsibility of learning lighting effects and displayed this skill when needed.

Y-TEENS

Y-TEENS

The Y-Teen Club, a junior branch of the Y.W.C.A., taught young girls the purpose of Christianity. Because of the large membership, two clubs were instituted—one for sophomore girls with Mrs. Sarah McAfoose and Mrs. Georgia Jones directing and the other for junior and senior girls with Mrs. Frances DeClever sponsoring. Both groups visited and entertained at orphanages and supplied food and clothing for the needy. Together they held a Sadie Hawkins dance. The Y-Teen Leadership Conference held for a week in June at Thiel College was attended by Lucile Kiser, Barbara Thompson, Carolyn Bellini, and Sue Barnhart.

HI-Y

To enhance better living according to Christian standards the two chapters of the Hi-Y, affiliated with Penn Hills, the County and International Y.M.C.A., upheld clean speech, sportsmanship, scholarship, and stood as a bulwark for good in the school—namely to serve others. Mr. Peter Mervosh and Mr. Holtz helped the boys tackle the Good Will Industry Drive and the Coins for Care campaign.

ROSTRUM - N. F. L.

ROSTRUM-NATIONAL FORENSIC LEAGUE

This energetic club has a two-fold purpose—to promote speech activities and to sponsor a mock election. Mrs. Elizabeth Beadling and her co-sponsor, Mr. William Mathos, helped various individuals gain recognition as they traveled to forty-three schools in Western Pennsylvania. Juniors Carol Porter and John Wilson both attained N.F.L. highest degree this year. They also won Second Best Speaker and Best Speaker awards respectively at the Student Congresses. Penn's N.F.L. chapter increased its district standing from nineteenth to eleventh during the speech tournament with the other twenty-eight schools in their league. Besides encouraging students to participate in student congresses, United Nations mock assemblies, orations, and extemporaneous speeches, Rostrum also entered nine two-member teams in competition this year. Here again we editors present another blue print for Penn's living.

French Club operated a Parisian Sidewalk Cafe

Is Janet Blanck, cashier, bogged down with the cash or the cash register? Barbara Oakley, Joanne Smetak, Mrs. Ziegler and Mrs. McKelvey, sponsor, looked on with interest.

Jim Rasis and Bernie Scott got menus from Fiona Henderson to eat lunch at the Parisian Pink Poodle.

PARIS COMES TO PENN

FRENCH CLUB

Led by Mrs. Elaine McKelvey, the French Club tried to understand and interpret the French language and French culture. By attending Pittsburgh's French Table at the French Colony, French movies, concerts, and art exhibitions, members had ample opportunity to increase their understanding of the French people. Furthermore, they held a colorful Sidewalk Cafe, given entirely in French, on the auditorium patio, re-creating French life by featuring sidewalk painters, strolling singers, flower girls, and French food. How about those chocolate-covered bees everyone seemed to be afraid to buy except Dr. Wherry! Will you ever forget the beautiful painting of the Notre Dame Cathedral done by Laura Eldridge? Everyone, even visiting parents, caught a bit of the gaiety of old Patee. The group has expectations of decorating the language suite in the new high school. Work or fun—all profited from their experiences in this club.

Bernie Kortze waited on Woody Doxey and Rich Swigart. The specialty today is chocolate covered bees.

Adriano Murri from Italy enjoyed the experience. Parents mingled with the student body.

Faculty members and students fraternized at the cafe.

Charlotte Morran, Margaret Craft, and Ann Lott watch a street painter, Dave Shields.

PENN ART CLUB

An organization devoted to give additional knowledge and a love for art, beauty, and proportion was Penn's Art Club, advised by Mr. Walter Groer. When posters or cover designs were needed for school activities or community functions, this group always designed something special. Inspiration was acquired from other sources—a visit to the International Art Exhibit, a tour of Indiana S. T. C., and Dr. Kipp's speech. Considered fun was a sketching party. On their Fun Night, however, when Hi-Y boys ate their food, was that incident humorous? The decorations completed for the spring dance really showed creative talent, their faithfulness, and President Pat Lesko's enthusiasm and skill as an organizer.

Carol Gutherlein and Kathleen Vance worked on posters.

Jeanne Morse and Bruce Linhart looked in on their enameling.

Valerie Grubbs and Rosemary Conway worked industriously on leather bags.
Carol Eckhart and Carol Beckett inspected the manger scene in the hall.

The 1958 Drama Competition

The senior class produced "Sorry, Wrong Number" by Lucille Fletcher. Laura Eldridge, the lead, was supported by Myrna Fazi, Carolyn Dira, Fiona Henderson, Linda Leech, Grace Hertel, Genie Boegel, Bill Martin, Robert Beck, Jay Roy, Richard Averell, and Pete Spadaro with Roy Rabatin directing a winner.

The junior class chose "Antic Spring" by Robert Nail, a comedy about six teenagers portrayed by Roy Rabatin, Scott Smith, William Montgomery, Helen Hale, Nancy Humphreys, and Jean Mettrick. Mr. Holtz helped the actors in their no scenery production.

The sophomores one-act play, directed by Mr. Julius Spizzirri, was entitled "Sugar and Spice," written by Ryerson and Clements. Included in the cast were John Wilson, Miriam Beacon, Beverly Spandau, Beverly Hodgkinson, and Charles Appel.

Much was left to the imagination in the junior play, "Antic Spring."

"Sugar and Spice" showed competition between Joneses' daughter (Beverly Spandau) and her visiting Paris cousin (Beverly Hodgkinson) to get affection of the boy next door played by Charlie Appel.

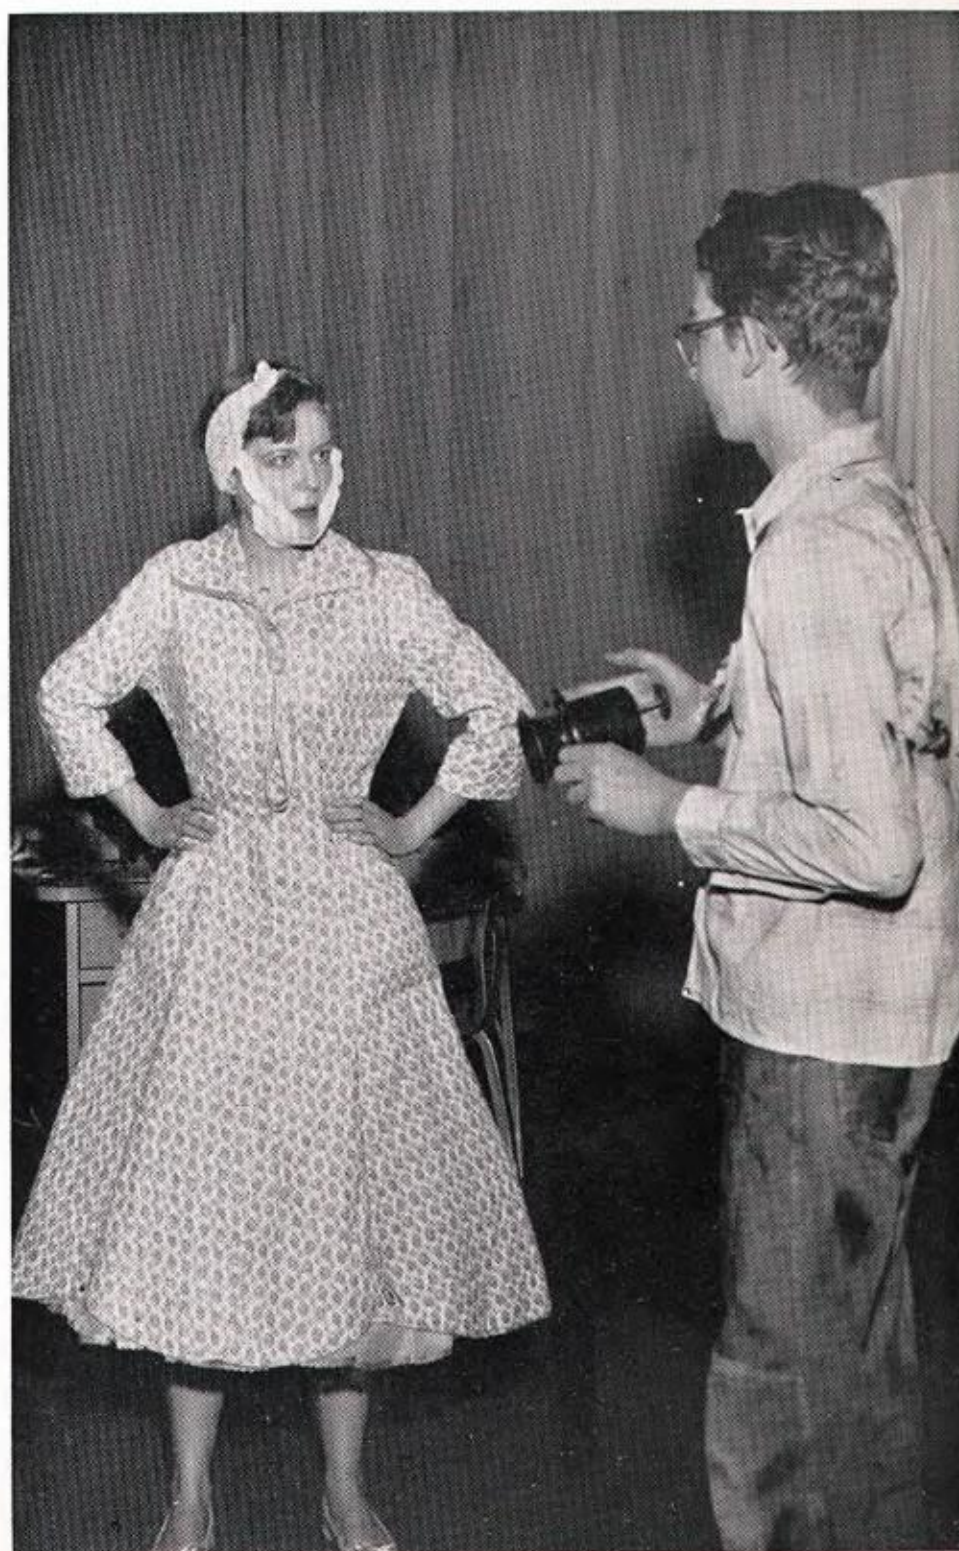

First Row: Cushner, president; Deakins, vice president; Kiser, secretary; Smith, treasurer; Hale, Sekerka, Lesko, Humphreys, Mettrick.
Second Row: Mr. Spizzirri, Spandau, Beacon, Appel, Shields, Curry, Knoll, Whitman, Mr. Teichert.
Third Row: Rabatin, Hartman, Wilson, Gibson, Hamilton, Slevin, Impavido, Walter, Montgomery.

CUE AND CURTAIN

Star dust in your eyes? Then wish upon a star. Join Cue and Curtain to obtain still greater self-expression or develop self-confidence and poise if you have previously belonged to a one-act or three-act play or if, as a production staff member, you have accumulated enough points. The common goal of Mr. Edward Teichert and Mr. Julius Spizzirri was to arouse dramatic interest and to teach acting technique in the hope of bringing out latent dramatic ability. Members with an instinctive feeling for drama verified the attainment of more dramatic power. Moreover, this group learned to study and appreciate drama by attending good play productions or listening to informative speakers. The club made quite a significant stride by sponsoring the Drama Competition among the three classes, bringing honor to individuals and adding prestige to the club.

Charlie Appel (Chump Edwards), auto fiend, who hated girls was arguing with Beverly Spandau (Jane Jones) who had a facial pack on her face because she was getting ready to go to a dance. This scene was from "Sugar and Spice."

CHORUS

On May 8, 1958, songs such as "Younger Than Springtime" and "I've Been Working On The Railroad" were presented at the annual chorus concert. Formals and dark suits were the attire worn by the vocalists that night.

For their concert next year, however, the chorus members are hopeful of having new robes. They have worked hard on many projects to earn enough money to buy them. The year 1960 may also find our students acting as host for District Chorus in our new school building.

Kathie Sekerka, Sandy Cook, Pat Waxman, Betsy Mitchell, and Lee Merkel attended District Chorus as Penn Hills High representatives.

At the Christmas season the joint choruses, consisting of the junior-senior group and the sophomore group, united and presented carols and other religious selections. At assemblies, under the direction of Mrs. Mary MacMillan, the chorus always sang a religious hymn which boosted our spirit of worship during the devotional period.

BAND -

PENN HIGH SCHOOL BAND

To the downbeat of Gershwin's "I've Got Rhythm," Penn's industrious marching band started off the 1959 football season. They practiced long and fervently to achieve their skill at intricate marching routines. Their efforts were rewarded when they received invitations to participate in several parades and a college homecoming. With the football season completed, their attention was turned toward concert music. Last year's band had returned from their trip to Harrisburg in March 1958 proudly bearing the title "Superior Forensic Rating—State Level." Working under the direction of Fred Williams, this band tried to maintain the high standard set for them by preceding bands. The public had an opportunity to hear the band at its annual presentations—the Spring Concert and Jazz Concert at which time seniors received awards, letters, and pins for excellent service. Peggy Frace, Linda Steele, Alvan Malone, and Roger Clough, four outstanding members of the band, were chosen to represent Penn at District Band. Roger Clough attended State Band. The band's elect governing body consisted of Roger Clough, student director; Joyce Deakins, majorette captain; Donna Alexander, Dave Armbruster, Ken Knoll and Fred Mayhew. Faithfully helping to maintain the equipment used was Wesley Semple.

Let there be music!

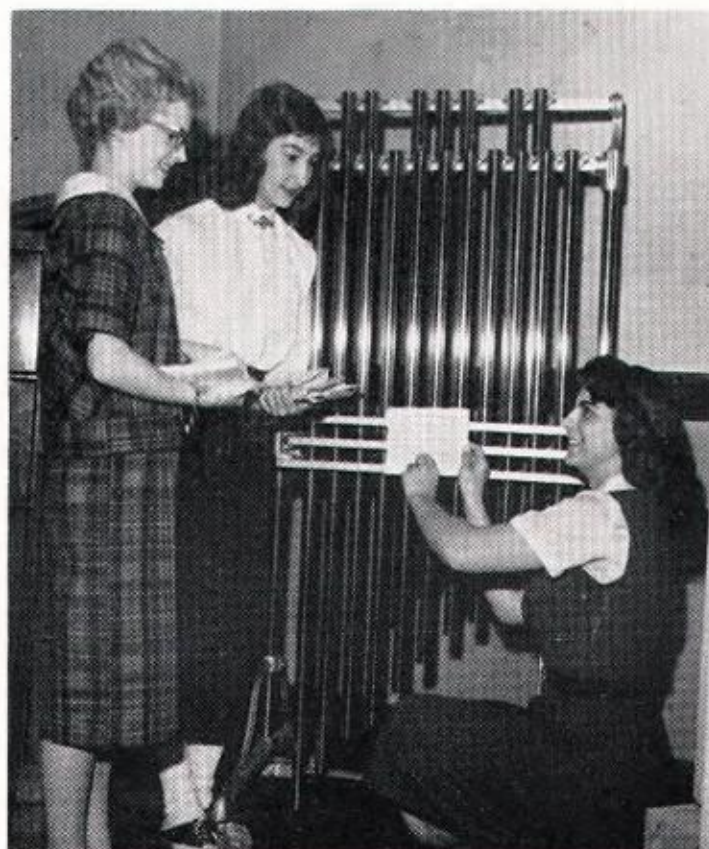

DANCE BAND

Attired in white dinner jackets, black trousers, and plaid bow ties and cummerbunds, the Penn High dance band provided very enjoyable music for many of our school affairs. These eighteen students also played, on request, at various dances throughout the community. Some of the places at which the band was heard were at the Sherwin Hotel, Oakmont High School, the Churchill Valley Country Club, our Coronation Dance, Sock Hop, and the Drama Competition. Mr. Fred Williams directed this group.

ORCHESTRA

Our theater-type orchestra was composed of twenty musicians who spent long hours practicing the skills and techniques taught by their director, Mr. Fred Williams. The highlight of the year came when they entertained between acts on the night of the junior class play.

District Orchestra was held this year on April 21, 1959, at Duquesne University. Those chosen to represent our school at this concert were Judy Sivi, Barbara Fritsche, Ken Knoll, Patricia Kelly, Helen Hale, Peggy Pilgrim, Barbara Golden, and Gene Teitz.

Nancy Eklund, Margaret Hodil, and Audrey Somerhalder were busy band librarians.

RHYTHMETTES

A favorite sight at half-time festivities of the football games was our snappy and smart-looking rhythmettes, under the leadership of Jan Dorricott and sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Lathrop. Attired in red and white uniforms, the thirty-two girls marched and danced their way through another successful season. To become a member of this entertaining group, the girls were tested and chosen for possessing such qualities as appearance, marching technique, and the ability to follow directions. Performing at pep rallies to help student morale and marching in parades were other accomplishments.

Here they come — our rhythmettes!

Seniors who took part in "Seventeenth Summer" were Paul Aber, Gay Cushner, Kathie Sekerka, Guy Elisco, Lynne Morton, Woody Doxey, Joyce Deakins, Nancy Humphreys, Dave Armbruster, Mari Schwarzer, Henry Hartman, Jeannie Mettrick and Scott Smith.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"Seventeenth Summer"

*Here's hands
all luck and a real of stuff to a real nice girl Live Kathie*

The senior class brilliantly presented the comedy "Seventeenth Summer" by Maureen Daly, November 21, 1958, under the direction of Mr. Edward Teichert. The story depicted the seventeenth year of young, sensitive Angie Morrow (Kathie Sekerka). Her family consisted of Mr. Morrow (Henry Hartman) and Mrs. Morrow (Mari Schwarzer) who were trying to raise four typical American girls. Angie's sisters were tomboy Kitty (Jeanne Mettrick), Lorraine (Nancy Humphreys) inflicted with an inferiority complex, and the oldest, Margaret (Gertrude Cushner). Touching the lives of the girls were Angie's hero, Jack (David Armbruster), Margaret's dependable Art (Paul Aber) along with her boy friend Fritz (Woody Doxey), and Martin (Scott Smith) with his superior attitude. Angie's gossip and selfish friends included Margie (Joyce Deakins) and Jane (Lynne Morton). Besides these, Guy Elisco portrayed Tony, the handsome wolf interested in Jane and Angie. Details were mastered and carried out by the student director, Wilma Keller. Mr. Julius Spizzirri and Mr. Robert Carpenter capably assisted with the elaborate properties and technical problems.

Jack (Dave Armbruster) and Angie (Kathie Sekerka) gazed at each other starry-eyed.

DRAMA

Mother (Mari Schwarzer) looked dismayed at her arguing daughters, Lorraine, (Nancy Humphreys) and Angie (Kathie Sekerka) while Jack (Dave Armbruster) Angie's boy friend, just listened.

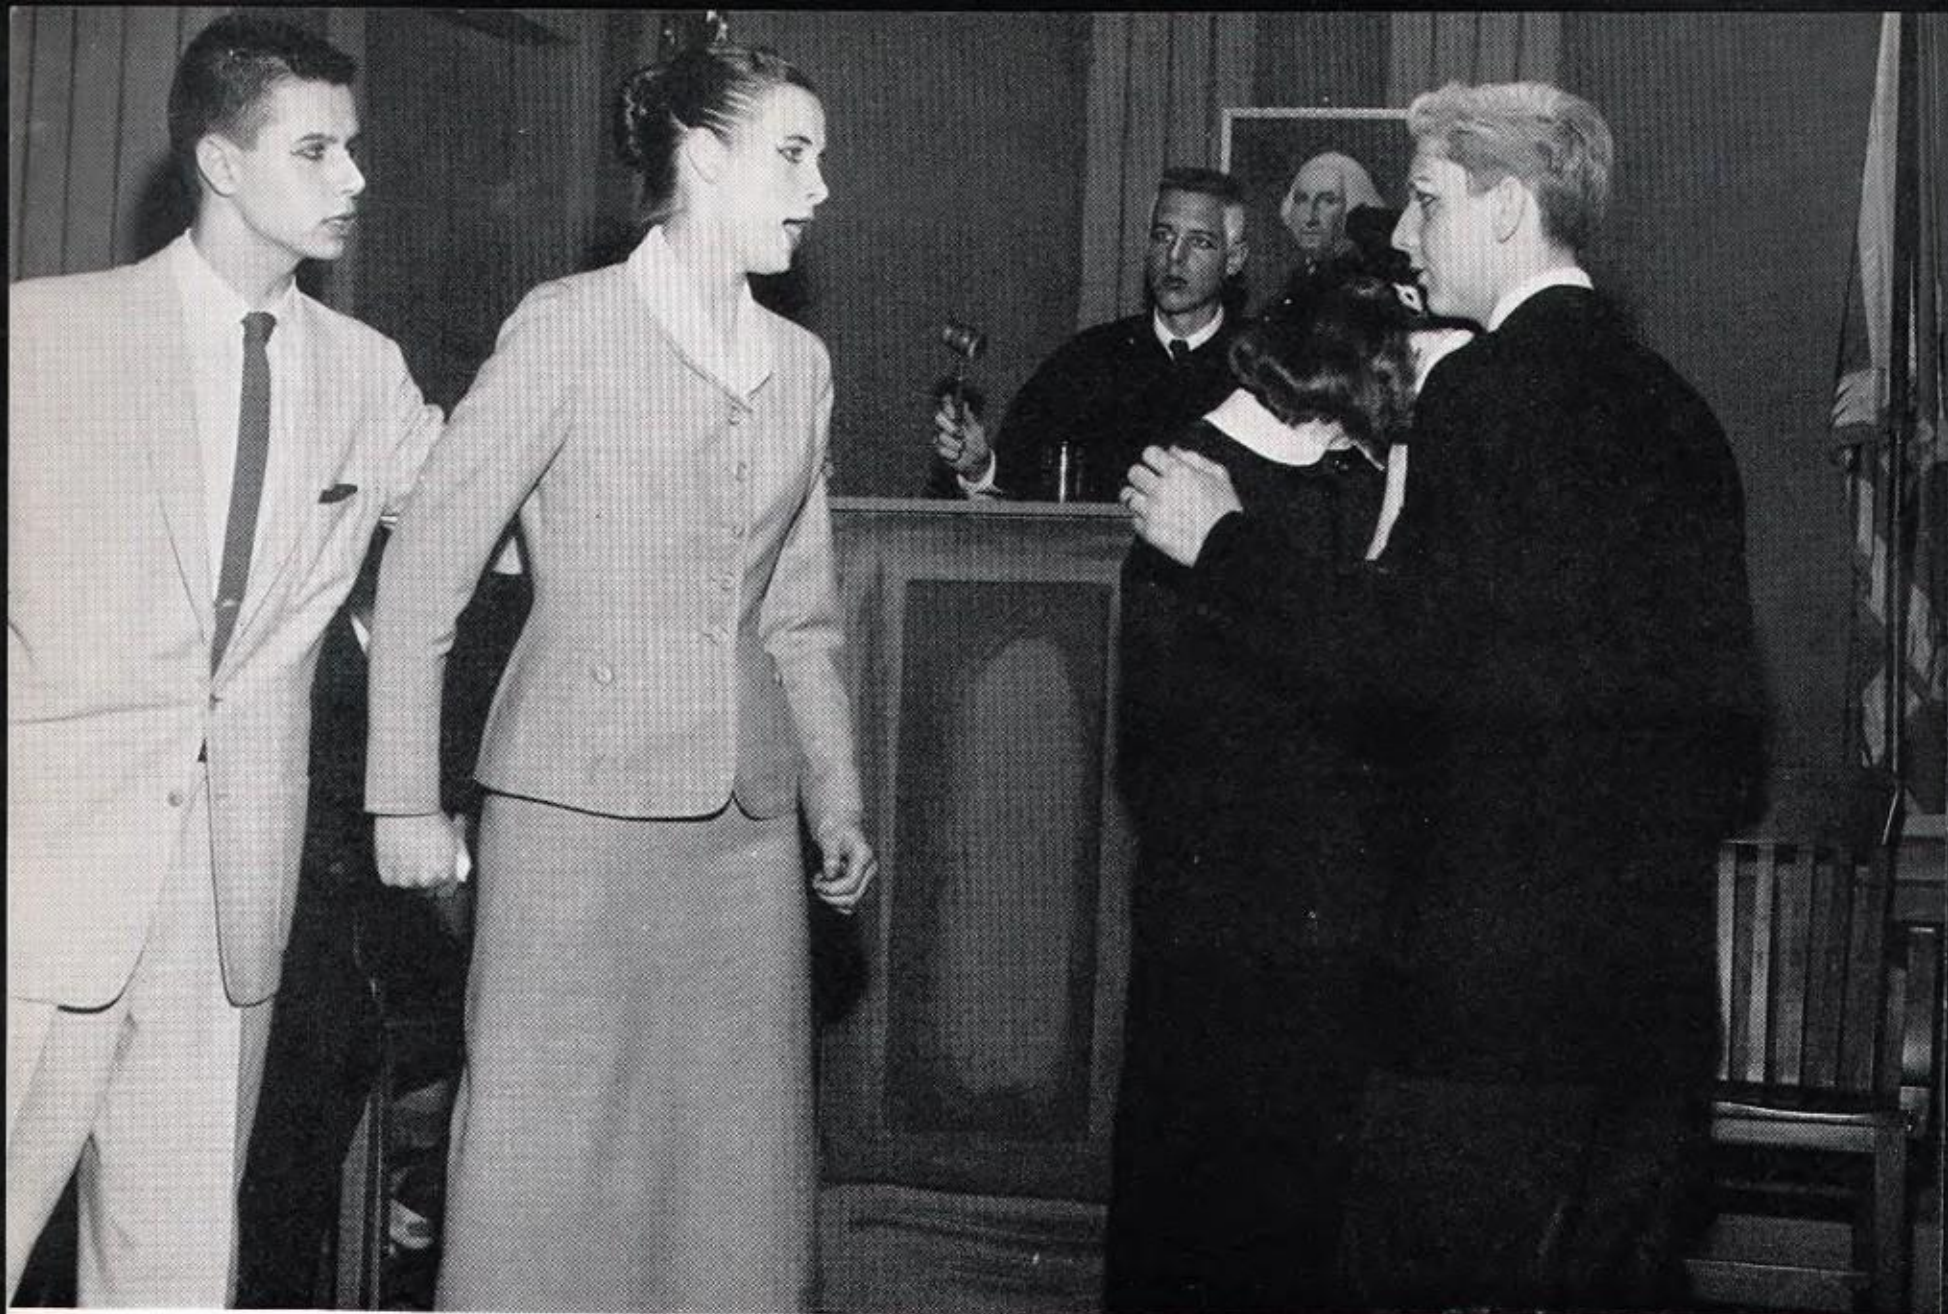

portrayed youth growing up

Angie (Kathie Sekerka) and Margaret (Gay Cushner) had a sisterly talk about love.

Kitty (Jeannie Mettrick) tom-boy sister of Angie pestered Martin (Scott Smith) an out-of-town boy friend.

About to hear the jury's verdict was Karen Andre (Barbara Slevin), accused of murder.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

Choosing "The Night of January Sixteenth"; a drama by Ayn Rand, the junior class presented this three-act play April 17 and 18, 1958. This courtroom comedy revolved around Karen Andre (Barbara Slevin) accused of murdering Bjorn Faulkner. Taking other leads were Judge Heath (George Hamilton), District Attorney Flint (Charles Gibson) and Defense Attorney (Robert Martin). The witnesses questioned comprised Dr. Kirkland (William Montgomery), Mrs. John Jackson (Patricia Lesko), Homer Van Fleet (David Shields), Elmer Sweeney (Kenneth Knoll), Nancy Lee Faulkner (Katherine Sekerka), John Graham Whitfield (Henry Hartman), Magda Svenson (Rae Watterson), Sigurd Jungquist (David Walter), Larry Regan (Andy Impavido), and Roberta Van Rensselaer (Gertrude Cushner).

The bailiff was played by Ray Curry and the matron, by Helen Hale, while the two attorneys' secretaries were Judith Swatsworth and Judith Pickering. The two policemen who kept order were William Kinnan and William Best. Lynne Paul kept court records. This suspense-packed play mystified the audience as to its outcome. The first night, however, Karen Andre was acquitted but the second night she was found guilty by a jury from the audience. Mrs. Mildred Dunham ably directed this excellent play.

District Attorney Flint (Charles Gibson) not quite sure of his witness, the flirt, Mrs. Roberta Van Rensselaer (Gay Cushner).

First Row: Hale, Slevin, Cushner, Sekerka, Swatsworth, Waterson, Paul.

Third Row: Montgomery, Curry, Scott, Pickering, Walter, Gibson.
Fourth Row: Best, Hamilton, Kinnan, Hartman.

"The Night Of January Sixteenth"

Defense Attorney Stevens (Bob Martin) questioned Dr. Kirkland (Bill Montgomery) for a long time.

The district attorney presented state evidence, a gun, to the witness, Homer Van Fleet (Dave Shields).

Magda Svenson (Rae Watterson) witness for the prosecution.

Staid old John A. Whitfield (Henry Hartman) angered as Sigurd Jungquist (Dave Walter) yelled, "He's the one!"

DEB — SUB DEB CLUBS

Junior and senior girls belonging to the Sub Deb and Deb Clubs respectively, could improve graces of permanent value. Their quest lay in becoming a well-poised person, in acquiring social charm, and in gaining greater magnetism in a well-balanced personality. Working together, the girls entertained old people, planned a mother-daughter dinner, and danced to the dreamy music of Baron Elliott's band at their biggest affair—One Touch of Venus—held in the gym February 27, 1959.

The dance band vocalist encouraged Chris Creazzi to use the moraccos.

VOCATIONAL CLUBS TEACHERS

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

To become a teacher a student must have an infectious enthusiasm for life. The Fred E. Haines Future Teachers of America Club had its best increase in membership this year with Sandra Heath installing fifty girls and two boys November 5, 1958, during a lovely candlelight service with parents attending. To study and learn every part of a teacher's work, seniors visited various township schools to observe or to act as cadet teachers for three days during February. One of the meetings consisted in the seniors giving reports of their reactions of the practice teaching experience and toward the teaching profession in general. The object of the club, therefore, was to cultivate in themselves qualities for successful teaching and to gain specific information about opportunities in the many fields of education. Delegates who attended the state conference at Central Dauphin High School with the sponsor, Miss Marie Stoehr, were Janet Blanck, Jeanne Mettrick, Sandra Heath, Barbara Golden, Margaret Hodil.

Officers Barbara Golden, Jeannie Mettrick, Peggy Frace, Margaret Hodil, and Sandra Heath admired teaching poster.

NURSES HOMEMAKERS

FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA

Since there has been a greater need for the ministering hands of the "lady in white," Miss Kathleen Jones, counselor of the F.N.A. club has brought greater understanding about the profession of nursing to members. Good physical and mental health, a high scholastic record, a sunny disposition, and a wholesome attitude toward life are some of the requirements needed to prepare them to take care of the ill and helpless. The members got first-hand information about the profession by touring Pittsburgh's hospitals, reading weekly to children in Children's Hospital, and helping in the "Candy Stripper" group from Pittsburgh Hospital.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

The purpose of the Future Homemaker's Club was to stimulate a better attitude toward all phases of homemaking—cooking, baking, preserving, sewing, home relations, and baby care. Their sponsor, Mrs. Virginia Cramer, made sure that there was a representative from the club at the county F.H.A. meetings or that several girls attended the Regional Conference held at Bethel Township. Skillful packaging of a Christmas food box complete with a stuffed turkey for a needy family and jewelry-making to swell their funds comprised their projects this term.

"Buenos dias, senora y senor. Muchas gracias, senorita." These expressions were quite familiar to the members of the Spanish Club, counseled by Miss P. Cecelia Massarelli. The object of the club was to have individuals become better Spanish conversationalists and to acquaint youth with the customs, literature, and art of Spain and Spanish America. Skits and Spanish speakers heightened interest in the subject. Augmenting this, the Christmas program, featuring the pinata, showed students the brighter, lighter, and happier side of our neighbors to the South.

Are you interested in nature study, animal husbandry, or even taxidermy? Join the Biology Club to fulfill this desire! Field trips to several points of natural history in the Pittsburgh area and excursions into the country by members, who collected many worthwhile specimens for the biology department opened new interests. One group repaired the damaged specimen of a horse; another conducted advanced dissections of frogs and pigs or other animals. Then, too, lectures by a surgeon, a veterinarian, a nurse, a professional snake hunter entranced and enlightened this group. Their supervisors, Mr. John Pancella, Mr. William Norman, and Mr. James Nist hoped the information gained would make students more aware of the many biological vocations and activities for them to choose from, if interested.

HONOR ORGANIZATIONS

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Pitching in and doing a solid job in every subject every year took strength, courage, and drive. Ardent aspirants who desired to work and exhibited their capabilities were honored by being inducted into the National Honor Society. The forces behind this persevering group were Mrs. Betty Zeigler, Mrs. Nancy Kraybill and Mr. Joseph Mutter. They made possible that each candidate was carefully screened and selected by faculty members if the four requirements, character, leadership, service, and scholarship were met. Eagerness for a new experience—working for a scholarship fund for a worthy senior—induced its members to sell a Penn Hills High book cover and refreshments during intermissions of school plays. In addition keeping activity records, planning an alumni banquet, and taking charge of the P. T. A. scholarship fund occupied some of their time.

THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

To supplement historical knowledge through field trips and places of historic interest was this society's purpose, such as Gettysburg's Battlefield, Bushy Run, or the scene of the Battle at Jumonville and Fort Necessity. Mr. Thomas Bond and Mr. Ben Beisel, sponsors, limited membership to above average students only, knowing that these were the persons who would complete individual projects to enhance their enthusiasm for American history.

FOOTBALL

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Penn Hills' football team of 1958 will be remembered for many years to come for compiling the best record in the school's history and for winning the first championship of the newly organized West Penn Conference. Penn easily overpowered their first three rivals—Langley, Norwin, and Latrobe, with scores of 32-0, 39-0, and 34-6 respectively. Penn's only defeat of the season came in the next game at the hands of Mount Lebanon, 14-7. This defeat eliminated Penn from WPIAL competition. In the next game Penn bounced back with a great last quarter rally to defeat Turtle Creek 13-6. After trouncing Beaver Falls 33-13, Penn overwhelmed Shaler 33-13 and North Hills 48-13, to capture the championship of the West Penn Conference. To conclude the season with an 8-1 won-lost record, Penn swamped Wilkinsburg 39-6. This was the first time in seven years that the Indians defeated their arch rival. Head coach Louis Nemec assisted by Robert Walters, Charles McGinley and Louis Rossi did an excellent job in fielding a winning team.

Coach Nemec gave some instructions to some of his boys.

LETTERMEN MASCOTS

VARSITY CLUB

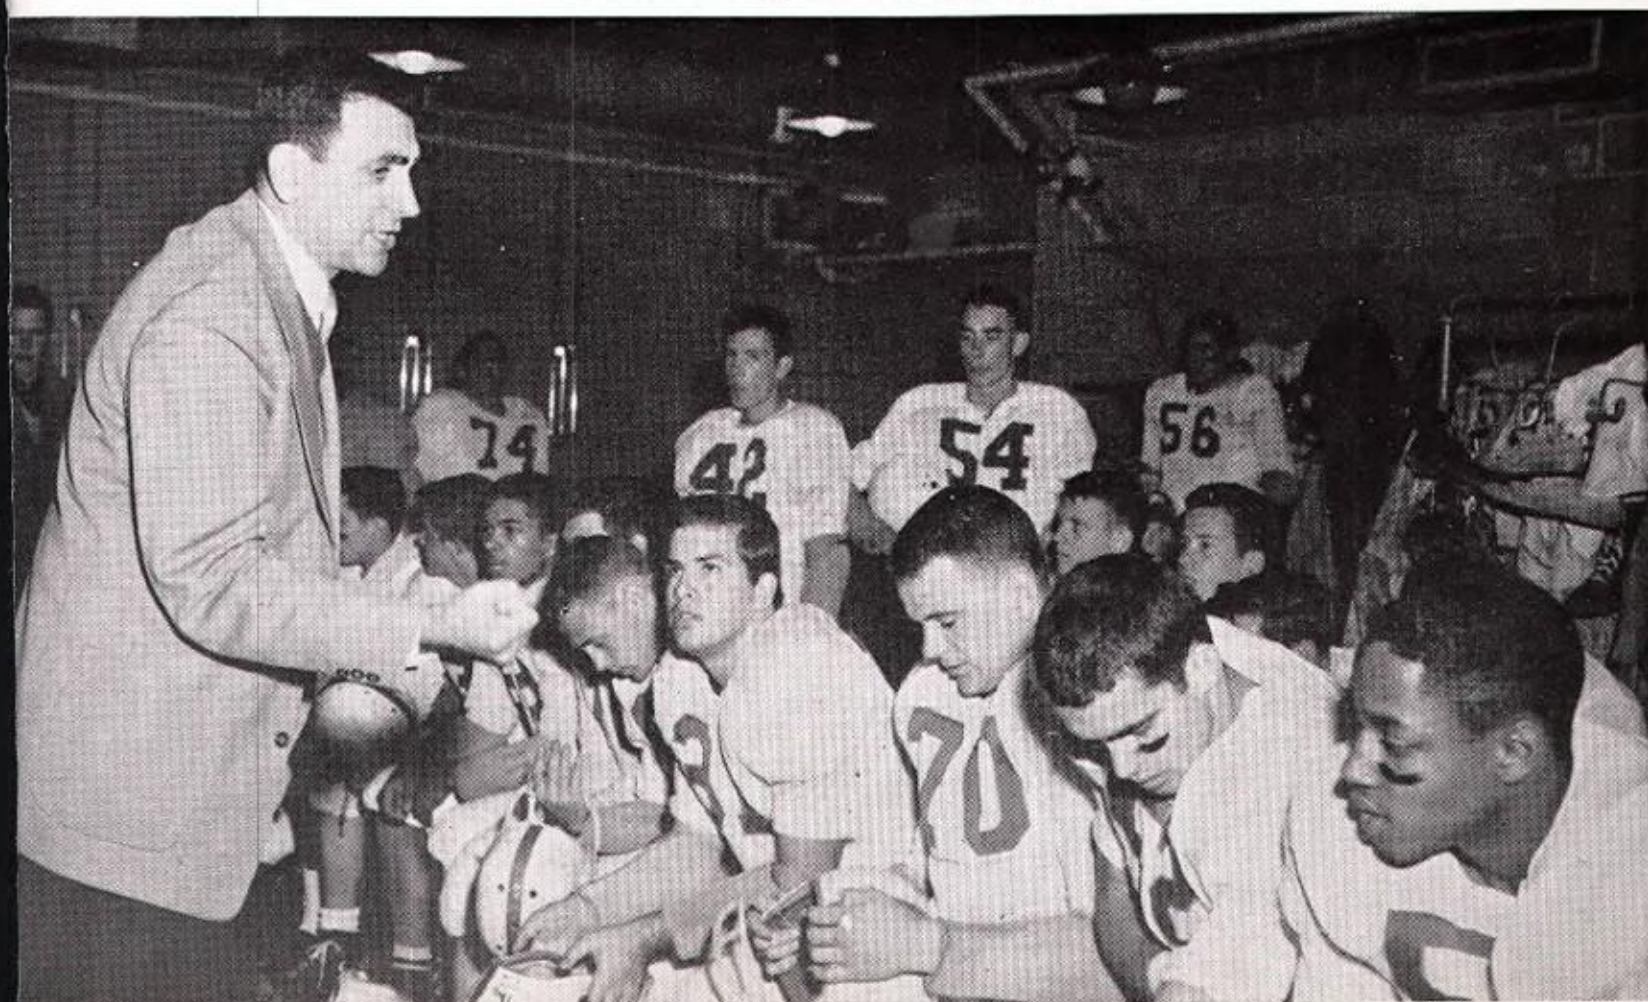

The Varsity Club represents the sturdy athletes who have earned a varsity letter in any of the athletic sports. Each boy's desire was to earn enough points to receive a varsity jacket. The uppermost thoughts of the club, however, were to raise the standards in athletics and develop better fellowship and sportsmanship. Their leader, Mr. Bruce Fisher, believed that the club made one timely contribution to the school and community—that is, that the boys went out into the world finer persons because of the tough experiences on the gridiron, diamond, golf course, or cinder path.

Chief Joe Chieppa and Squaw Carol Roccasano, mascots.

The Penn Indians put up a good fight with the Latrobians.

Mr. Rossi strongly reminded boys to get that touchdown.

LEADERS - Specialists in instilling school spirit

Acting as doctor, mother, nurse maid and comforter to the football team members were Penn's energetic football managers. With their help our boys were never late on the field, thirsty, or without clean uniforms.

Students who volunteered to usher the local and visiting football fans to their reserved seats looked very impressive in their usher's caps and did a splendid job in spite of the chilly evening weather.

Always cheerful and ready to climb the stands to make a sale were our warmly bundled program salesmen. They pushed their way through crowded stands in order to aid the school fund by selling their quota of programs.

Leading Penn students in boisterous cheers were our peppy, enthusiastic cheerleaders. They helped to boost the morale of the members of the various sport teams with their gaiety and school spirit.

Cagers provided exciting moments for spectators

Penn Hills High's junior varsity basketball team gave experience to future Penn High greats on the basketball floor. Playing the junior varsity squads from neighboring schools, they broke even with eight wins and eight losses. James Mewhirter was their coach. The boys played their games well and learned much which will aid them in seasons to come.

GOLF - SPRING 1958

Penn High's golf team again amassed a very impressive record, losing only one match all season—that being in the WPIAL playoffs when they were defeated by one point by Har-Brack High.

Penn's team, well coached by Jim Wolfe, was composed of Larry Armstrong, George Mackanos, Jack Solanik, Mike Kress, and Tom Truschel with Marty Giunto as alternate.

Larry Armstrong and Jack Solanik qualified for the State Championship held on the golf course of Penn State University. Armstrong and Solanik placed 16th and 17th respectively.

With none of the team graduating, Penn can look forward to another successful year in 1959.

TRACK SPRING 1958

Linhart placed third as discus thrower in the state meet.

Vaulter Kumer placed second in the state meet in 1958.

Remember the picks we had in Spanish class. Bruce Thinclads encountered stiff competition

During the 1958 season, Penn High thinclads set three new school records. Fred Eldridge ran the mile in 4 minutes 42½ seconds, breaking the record set in 1946. Bruce Linhart broke the school discus mark with a heave of 149 feet 3 1/5 inches. Finally, Jack Kumer set a new pole vault record at 12 feet and 1/4 inch. Linhart placed 3rd and Kumer 2nd in state competition.

The team, coached by Glenn Davis and Charles Hemphill, had a successful season, winning 3 dual meets, finishing 5th out of 19 schools in the Mount Lebanon Invitational, and finishing 3rd in the WPIAL relays. Jim Slocum was awarded the trophy going to the player who contributes most to the team's spirit.

The season's record is as follows:

CROSS COUNTRY - SPRING 1958

Fleet-footed tested for stamina and endurance

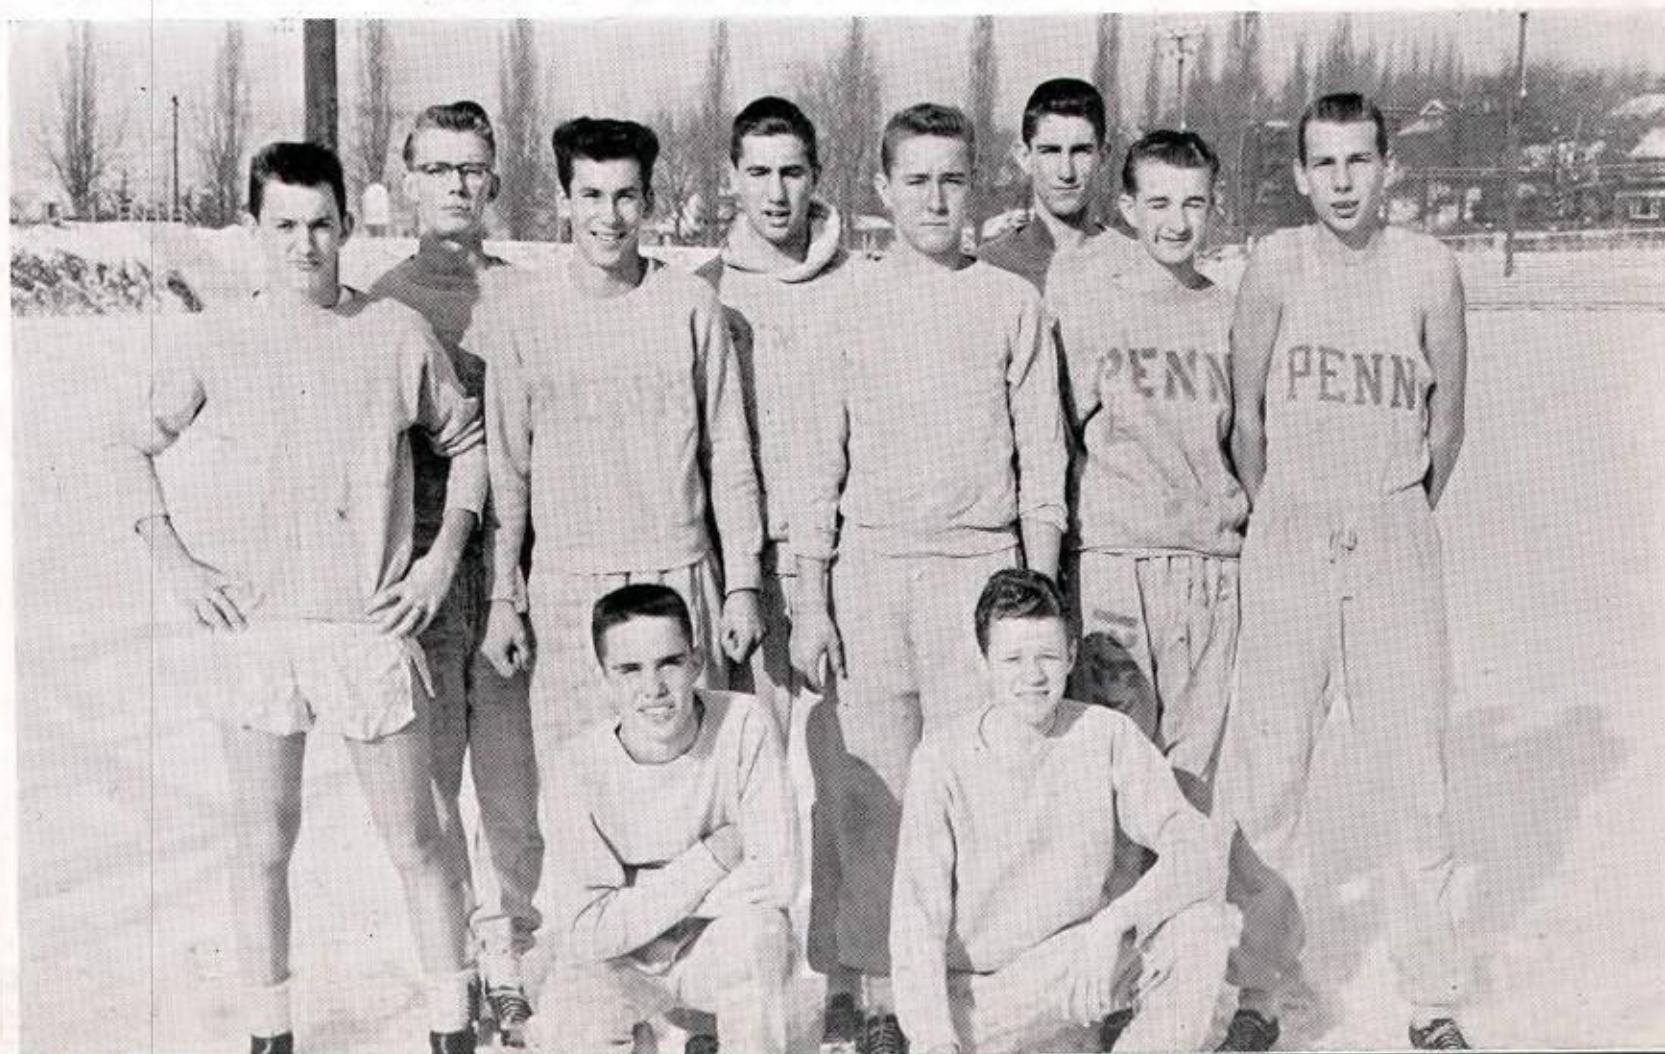

Penn High's 1958 Cross Country team, hurt by the loss of several key runners, had a bleak season. Despite this fact, the underclassmen gained valuable experience which should help them in the future. This experience, coupled with the expert coaching of Glenn Davis, should result in a definite improvement next year.

After defeating Braddock 6 to 5, Penn met Wilkinsburg which had beaten Turtle Creek for the championship. Unfortunately Penn was defeated 7 to 3.

Seated: Warrick, program chairman; Angelo, secretary; Helfrich, president.

Standing: Pecora, vice president; Flack, treasurer; Kemmerer, points-chairman.

Adele McCain and Anita Teodori played hockey.

The Girls' Athletic Association offered more athletics to interested girls. Heading this group was the G.A.A. board with their co-sponsors, Mrs. Jean Furrie and Mrs. Elfrida Jack, who organized intramural sports and promoted better sportsmanship. The projects undertaken were the Sock Hop, organization of the girls' intramural basketball tournament and the teams playing other schools plus the purchase of new Indian costumes for the mascots. If girls helped with gym classes, refereed games, played on school teams, or aided in any way with the Sock Hop, they earned points for a letter, numeral, or jacket. Keeping mentally alert, building healthy bodies, having a sense of fair play were some of their strong points as a club.

SPECIAL EDITION of Alma Mater

Moving to a new environment came to Penn the first week of April 1959. Picture the student body aboard buses packed to "the hilt," carrying stacks of books, gym clothes, or articles of all types to the new lockers. See, too, teachers with cars loaded to capacity and maintenance men driving heaped trucks. Quite a procession and what excitement! The beauty and the hugeness of the new school overwhelmed everyone. But, best of all, now all classes were together—united to enjoy all the wonderful facilities provided by the board of education and administrators who planned with foresight.

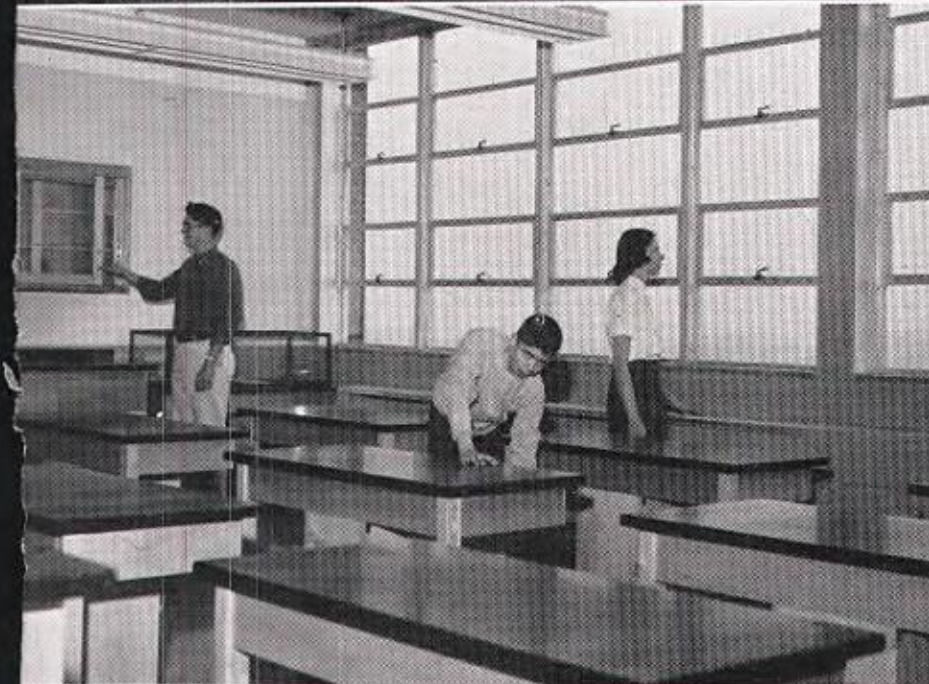

Trying the new seats with a group of students was Mrs. Harriet Naser.

write me next year. and Good luck always.
